A few days ago, we reported that after the release of Windows 8.1, Microsoft has been busy updating and improving the Windows Phone ecosystem, especially the new Windows Phone 8.1, which brings back the Start Menu and Windows Phone apps and apps to the desktop. One of the most appreciated updates to Windows Phone 8.1 is the Skype app, which brings an updated version of the Skype app for Windows Phone 8.1 users. The Skype 4.3.0.1784 for Windows Phone was released in the Windows Store today. This release includes a number of fixes and improvements. The Windows Phone Skype app now includes the functionality that we've seen on the Windows Store version, such as support for Office 365 and the ability to include voice and video messages from an Outlook.com account. To use these features, Windows Phone Skype users will first need to create a Microsoft account on a Windows 8.1 PC, and then simply sync this account
