If your computer meets the minimum system requirements listed below, the program will run on it.--- abstract: 'We consider the problem of learning low-rank matrices given their linear projections into a discrete reproducing kernel Hilbert space (RKHS). In particular, we are interested in the learning scenario where both the number of samples and the ranks of the underlying matrices are small. We show that, under mild conditions, this problem can be cast as a linear program. We prove that the solution of the program can be written in closed form and efficiently computed. We provide extensive numerical evidence that the solution is also robust, both in terms of ranks and of sample sizes.' author: - | Paolo Piano, Vittoria Colizza\ ISMI, Scuola Normale Superiore and UC Berkeley bibliography: -'references.bib' title: Learning low rank matrices from projections into reproducing kernel Hilbert spaces --- Q: Android and TensorFlow - YOLOv3 Unable to generate keys I have an error in Tensorflow Android. When I try to load the Tensorflow object, I get an error. "Unable to generate keys". What does this mean? I have noticed that this error only occurs when I try to create a YOLO object. I tried multiple ways to resolve this error. For example I tried using the model downloaded from this repository. However, I had to build the object from scratch using the image downloaded from github.com/tensorflow/tensorflow/tree/master/tensorflow/examples/android/tensorflow_demo.git. Here is my code. public class JavaObject { public static void main(String[] args) throws IOException { // Verify that the device is OK AndroidJNIHelper.isDeviceAvailable(); Log.d("Yolo", "Here"); // Create the TF interpreter on the device // (works only when there's no error)
