Edit the program and want to run it, but it gives errors, such as: The program cannot start because MS Windows. The program needs. Adjust the spacing of the Home and System files and directories, and re-run the program. Click Start > All Programs > Accessories >. The install program should be in the C:\Program Files or C:\Program Files (x86) folder. If the user still cannot start the program or it cannot run, check the following: System Restore and restore your computer to a previous date. Check the document or other application, determine if it is the cause of the program cannot start. Note: Some registry entries can affect the operation of the program and fix them will eliminate this problem. Below are the steps: Note: The version of the MSI, re-run the MSI repair, so you can choose to remove the MSIs. Start >> All Programs >> MSI. Click the "Show Application Column" Click "Is Installed" to select the installed application. Click "Group By Installed Status" to sort by status. Click the MSI you want to delete a row. Click "Remove" to uninstall the application. end program 876 Selecting the MSI you want to repair or uninstalled registry entries, as shown in the picture below. Click "Edit", "Change" or "Delete" to fix the problem in the following. Click on "Start", and then select all registry entries and enter your password. Uninstall the registry entries, and then you can run the program normally. Start >> All Programs >> Accessories > Check if the registry is clean. The method above will be slightly different for the registry. Do not forget to clean all registry (Tools > Tasks > Registry), Do not forget to close any programs before each time when you start it. A: In addition to the suggestions given above about installing a system restore point, here's the other thing I'd recommend is if you have multiple copies of an application installed, just delete them all. Something has been corrupted, and you'll only screw yourself up by trying to run the other one. Just delete it. The difference this time is this time, this particular application seems to be malware, and trying to run one version on another machine will most likely cause it to latch up and not work properly. To do this go
