Category: Internet, Price: Free, License: Free, Platform: WindowsNEW YORK -- New York Knicks forward Carmelo Anthony is going to try to make history Thursday when he makes his return to the U.S. for the first time since being traded to the Oklahoma City Thunder. The Knicks expect him to suit up for the first time against the Boston Celtics. Anthony said before Friday's game he hasn't paid much attention to the media hoopla surrounding his return. But he also noted that it will be "fascinating" to play back in New York, the place where he spent 13 seasons, the city where he and his family moved when he became a free agent in July. "It's going to be fun," he said. "It's going to be fun to go back and play in New York. The fans are going to be excited. I'm excited to go play in New York, get on the floor." Anthony will play the first of three home games in New York this season. His Thunder play the first of three road games in New York this season against the Knicks on Jan. 12. He also missed two games this season because of a sore right wrist. Anthony did not play in his first 10 games in Oklahoma. He's averaging 10.9 points, 4.5 rebounds and a career-low 1.1 assists in 18.9 minutes in 32 games. He's the first player to average 10 points and 5 rebounds per game since the 1988-89 season. "I'm just going to play basketball," Anthony said. "I'm not really concerned with what's going on off the floor.... It's going to be fun. It's going to be fun to play basketball again. It's going to be fun to get back to New York. I'm looking forward to it." ESPN.com's Ian Begley and The Associated Press contributed to this report. BECK! I have the best cast to work with! (I might be slightly biased, but the rest of the cast is awesome as well!) They asked me to play a character I'm so excited to play! If you don't know what that means, well, my Aunt Betty is excited and there's no way you can hold me responsible for that! I was actually about to take a huge break from video games and was in
