Photoshop offers many tools that may make it easier for beginners to edit images, but don't let that fool you into thinking it's easy to edit images in Photoshop. If you watch a video tutorial that shows you how to use a tool, then it really takes years of practice to be able to use that tool efficiently. Indonesia’s military says it will not allow foreign interference in its domestic affairs, after a week of protests triggered by police firing on students in Jakarta. Ozias Saleh, a spokesman for the country’s armed forces, says armed forces will protect Indonesian democracy from outside forces. “We believe in the Indonesian independence.

Indonesia should not be a colony of other countries,” Saleh said in a speech at the capital Jakarta’s main army barracks. He didn’t immediately elaborate on the armed forces’ position on protests following the shootings of demonstrators on Friday. The protests erupted after videos appeared on social media showing police shooting at crowds near the parliament building. Police have denied firing live rounds at the protest. Video of the protest shows the shots being fired as people retreat from the gunman to escape and seek cover. Jakarta Police Chief Tito Karnavian said in a statement on Tuesday the officers in the videos did not aim at protesters, but at assailants who threw stones and Molotov cocktails at police, who then fired warning shots. He said the officers who shot at protesters were “live fire” and “used rubber bullets”, without elaborating. It wasn’t clear if officers were firing live rounds on the street on Friday and Tuesday. The statement also said there were no plans to fire at protesters again. At least 98 people have been hospitalised, including 18 who have been placed in an induced coma, after the confrontation on Friday.
