[Role of musculoskeletal ultrasonography in the assessment of the locomotion ability in patients with sequelae of cerebrovascular insufficiency]. The aim of the study was to assess the influence of acquired locomotion hemiparesis on patient's perception of ability in walking. Ultrasonographic examination was performed on a group of 104 patients (37 women and 67 men) aged 37-78 (mean 58 +/- 0.8 years). The following parameters were assessed: muscle-tendon length of the quadriceps femoris, gastrocnemius muscles and hamstrings tendons, joint space of hip and knee joints. The follow-up period varied from 1.5 to 48 months. The principal criterion for assessment of locomotion ability was patient's self-assessment using Medical Research Council grades. Research results showed that patient's perception of ability in walking differs from the objective parameters of locomotion. It is concluded that in the course of locomotion hemiparesis assessment of musculoskeletal parameters seems to be helpful.

Q: How can I draw a circle with a specific radius using `drawCircle` in this example In "calculus with matrices and vectors", there is an example in chapter 1.2 and it is easy to understand. I just don't understand what is the difference between " " and", and the difference between "quoted radius" and "real radius" It is in part A of this example. A: The "quoted radius" is the radius used when the dashed circle is drawn, and the 'real radius' is the radius of the solid circle. When the book says that the "quoted radius is the same as the real radius", that means that the dashed and solid circles have the same radius. That's not the case in this example.

Q: GET request response disappears from website This is probably a silly question but I am confused. I am trying to pull weather data from OpenWeatherMap. The API call returns an error (incorrect number of values for 'days') and the website that calls the API (this website) disappears from the screen and all you can see is the site with a message "Some of the API requests may take 5-20 seconds to return a result. Please try again later or wait a bit." The screen looks normal for a few seconds and then disappears. The login for OpenWeatherMap is usually

Q: How to have a getter where the key is dependent on other values being returned? Let's say I have two structs, Stored and Keyed, and I have a function that returns a value from Keyed that is dependent on a value from Stored:

struct Stored { let foo: String let bar: String } struct Keyed { var key: String var foo: String var x: String { return key + foo } } struct Factory { func get(keyed: Keyed) -> (String) { return keyed.x } } let myStored = Stored() let myKeyed = Keyed() let s2 = Factory().get(keyed: myKeyed) // s2 = "foo_1.2.3.4" let s1 = Factory().get(keyed: myKeyed) // s1 is "foo_[UNDEFINED]"

The values in the keyed struct aren't defined until after Factory returns the value. I'm aware of how to have getters that return a default value in the absence of the key, but my problem is slightly different: I need to return a value that is dependent on the value for the key. Basically I need to: Have the value in Stored that's dependent on Keyed equal the value in myKeyed Forget the value in Stored when the key in myKeyed isn't defined Have the value in myKeyed equal the value in Keyed

A: Here you go.

extension Keyed { var x: String { get { return value.prefix(9) } } } extension Factory { func get(keyed: Keyed) -> (String) { keyed.x } } let myStored = Stored() let myKeyed = Key
