It is bordered on the north by Castilla-La Mancha, the south by the province of Toledo, the west by the province of Segovia, and the east by Castilla y León. The community of Siitot covers an area of 110 km² (42 sq miles) and according to the 2005 census had a population of 195 inhabitants. History The foundation of the town dates back to the Middle Ages. In 1070, Alfonso VI of León and Castile gave the town to Alfonso de la Cerda, Count of Medinaceli and son of Fernando de la Cerda, the monarch's alférez. The name Siitot is derived from the name of a local river, Sieto. Since the Middle Ages, Siitot has been a village town where
