Revenue declined 6%, but profits rose 7% thanks to the boost in the performance of its business services. Revenue for all of 2013 also took a tumble. IBM's largest business area is its back-office functions like selling, marketing, sales, procurement and human resources. In contrast to the IT and consulting space, IBM's non-technology-related areas of focus actually declined 2% in the fourth quarter. The decline in revenue in this area shows that the turnaround of IBM's broader business is taking time, something that is 6d1f23a050
