
Windows 7 And The REALbasic HTMLviewer [WORK]

August 13, 2018 â€” In fact, in Windows builds, Xojo IPCSockets are just TCP sockets bound to the local host. If the IT department has a locked computer, .NET will use this information to try to connect using this information to connect to the correct host. In case you are working with IPCSockets that are not working and you want to find the reason behind it, I don't recommend checking IPCSocket as a solution. If you have access to the computer that is failing, check the event log for any warnings. This message may appear when you are trying to start or stop an IPCSocket.
